Quartz Gravel

Quartz Gravel is the Rolls-Royce of our range. Natural Quartz not only looks wonderful but has also been shown to help reduce the build up of algae in the aquarium. This is partly due to the huge surface area of quartz which offers added space for the establishment of 'tank cleaning' bacteria. Quartz sparkles underwater due to the many light reflecting facets and looks like diamonds have been added to your tank.

Coral Sand

Pisces Natural Products is proud to offer the best coral sand on the market. Unlike other so called “coral sands” on the market which are usually no more than crushed Limestone or other mineral calcium chips, our substrate is pure Calcium Carbonate Coral. It has a bright white colour that reflects the light under corals promoting their growth. An important component of any marine and African Rift Valley tank. It's natural smooth edges enable bottom dwelling fish to clean and feed without injury. It's porous texture (unlike mined mineral calcium substrate which is smooth) has an enormous surface for growing bacteria—an ideal platform for animals helping the biological filtration of the aquarium.

Calcium Carbonate 99.8%

SiO₂ 0.07%

MgO 0.05%

Al₂O₃ 0.05%

SO₄ 0.03%

Perfect for Marine and African Cichlid Aquariums.

Skeleton Trees

The amazing Skeleton Tree is without doubt our most impressive product.

These Strangler Figs come all the way from Bali. After they have killed the host tree by means of strangulation they themselves die. At this point local tribe craftsmen hollow out the dead host to reveal the Skeleton tree in its full glory. The tree is then cleaned and sanded.

Many of our customers have placed Skeleton Trees at their shop entrances or as a store show piece attraction. Some even take them home for use as a natural sculpture.

They can be left natural or varnished and polished. They can be planted up with Ferns and Bromeliads – the possibilities are extensive.

Choose the tree you want – we are happy to email you photos of all the stock at that given time so you can choose the tree you need to suit your requirements and taste.

Please note price is not just based on size.

Sizes range from 2m-3m and are about 40cm-50cm in diameter.

Wood

From vines collected in the deepest darkest jungles of the world, to Cholla cactus skeletons from the arid planes of the Sierra Nevada Desert in California, Pisces Natural Products boasts the most outstanding range of woods in Australia. Jungle Vines

We currently offer 8 styles of real Jungle Vines for use in reptile terrariums and vivariums. Many of our Jungle Vines also work well as bird perches. None of these vines are plastic, fiber or resin.

They are ALL real Jungle Vines designed by mother nature herself. Each vine is unique in shape and texture. No two are alike.

Sumba Vine

VINE001 1m

The Sumba Veined Coastal Vines are one of our most impressive vines. Freshly after harvesting these climbers from the canopy, the local Tribesmen skillfully remove their epidermis to reveal an underlying dermal layer.

Twisted Sumba Vine

VINE004 1m

This variety of Sumba Vine is totally twisted. Very rare and hard to find.

Snake Vine

VINE005 1m

The never-ending curves and ripples in this species can probably best be described as similar to a sinus curve. The continual oscillating, pulse like appearance of these jungle vines have inspired the local tribesmen to name them "Tanga Monyet" AKA Monkey Ladders.

Skinned Snake Vine

VINE006 1m

This particular version of our Snake Vine has had its outer dermis peeled right after collection to reveal a unique highway system of grooves.

Jungle Vines

Curvy Lianas

VINE007 1m

Sorong Island Curvy Lianas are a beautiful addition to every tropical terrarium. Create climbing opportunities for your pets of all shapes and sizes with these sturdy jungle vines.

Lump Vine

VINE013 5cm thick; 1m length

VINE014 8cm thick; 1m length

VINE015 11+cm thick; 1m length

These bewildering creations seem to still be reverberating from the last steps of dinosaurs.

Skinned Lump Vine

VINE016 1m 5-8cm thick

This version of the popular Lump Jungle Vine has been skinned fresh after cutting to reveal an intricate pattern of parallel lines from end to end.

Pigtail Vines

VINE017 1m 2-4cm thick

VINE018 1m 5-7cm thick

Dangling Pigtail Vines are comprised of 2-3+ different vines which have been found growing intertwined in an almost ropelike manner. If you are planning to build a small reptile tank this species of vine is preferred.

Tambora

Tambora Wood is one of the few plants in the world that is capable of growing directly in volcanic rock beds. Tambora wood's roots twist and turn reaching deep into the hard volcanic rock in search of water. This journey for water is what gives them their unique shapes and textures. This wood is NOT easily collected and therefore available in limited quantities.

Tambora wood roots are extremely resistant to water, thus making them perfect wood decor for humid vivarium environments.

Gold Vine

This is the most wonderful wood we have ever seen! Found in Mongolia, this vine is paper smooth with intricate branching and fascinating beauty. It will turn a fantastic Mahogany colour when in an aquarium. Perfect for both Aquariums and Terrariums or any other display. This wood is extremely low in any tannin and is 100% safe for all fish and animals. As Gold Vine is very light it will take from 7-10 days to become water-logged and sink. As we source this wood directly from tribes and villagers, we're able to offer you extremely attractive prices for this amazing work of art.

Cholla

This is without doubt one of our most wonderful woods available. Cholla skeleton is the internal structure of a variety of cactus growing in the Sierra Nevada Desert and the Sonoran Desert of northern Mexico. Cholla trees can be safely used in terrariums, aviaries and hermit crab displays. Cholla can be used in aquariums, however as the wood is rather soft it will rot over time and release tannins. All our Cholla skeletons are collected from dead cactus under license from the American Department of Agriculture.

Ghostwood

For an aged, weathered look Ghostwood has no equal. These branches of Manzanita and other species have spent years exposed to the harsh conditions of the California mountains. The grains and textures are accentuated when wet and the hardness of Ghostwood ensures years of use under the toughest environments including aquariums, terrariums and humid vivariums.

Manzanita

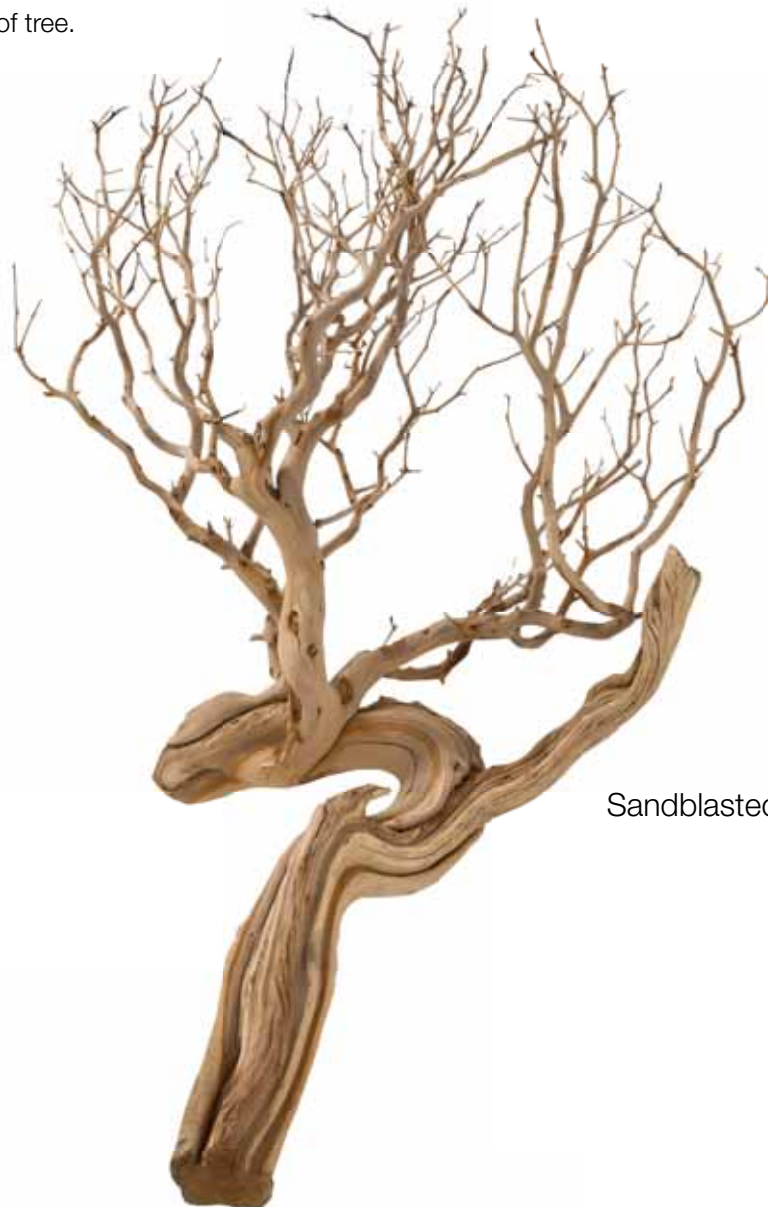

For the first time in Australia we are proud to offer you the rare and wonderful Manzanita. Manzanita is native to the South East of California and means 'little apple' in Spanish. Manzanita naturally has a beautiful smooth purple bark. Sandblasting reveals a blonde smooth wood with impressive grains and textures.

Manzanita is an excellent wood for aquariums and looks beautiful under water with its unique shapes and colors. Manzanita is also non toxic and safe for aquatic and terrestrial animals including fish and reptiles.

Manzanita wood releases very few tannins into the water compared to many other types of aquarium wood and is also highly resistant to decay.

Manzanita may float until saturated, which can take a few days or weeks depending on the size of the wood. Until it is saturated enough to sink you can weigh it down with a rock or other heavy object.

In an aquarium, Manzanita provides a great habitat for your aquarium life forms. The twisted shapes and branches make excellent hiding places and look beautiful. The unique shapes and sizes are attractive and often look like miniature versions of giant logs and pieces of tree.

Grapewood

Straight from the vineyards of the Napa Valley in California our Grapewood is the finest in Australia.

The sculptural and dramatically gnarled form of Grapewood makes it an engaging centerpiece for a terrarium while offering climbing opportunities for reptiles and other small animals.

All our Grapewood has been sandblasted to give it a weathered finish similar to that of driftwood.

Perfect for birds as a natural play gym, the different widths of the branches exercise the feet and keep your bird healthy and happy.

Bird Manzanita

Our Manzanita is harvested in the mountains of Southern California, and hand-crafted into wonderful natural bird perches. It's hardness and unique qualities make it the "choice" of bird owners.

Manzanita is a safe, non-toxic, hard wood (the 8th hardest wood in the world). It's natural curving and irregular shaped branches contribute to your parrot's healthy feet and over-all happiness.

Fantastic in aviaries.

Cave Rock Sculptures

Our exclusive range of rock sculptures is unique in Australia. Each rock is hand picked and then polished. The craftsmen then reveal the natural curves and holes using minimal sculptural carving to uncover the inner beauty of each item. All rocks are made from either rare Quartz, Crystal, Marble or Jasper. The Stalactite is calcium carbonate based. All sculptures are inert due to a special sealing treatment and are completely safe for use in any aquarium. They will also not affect the pH of your tanks.

Scenic Rocks

We are proud to offer you a range of wonderful rocks that have traditionally been used in the Chinese art of Penjing – the forerunner of Bonsai. For the first time in Australia, we are offering the same rocks that have been used since that time in the famous miniature landscapes and Penjing masterpieces which represent hills, mountains, streams and valleys of the Li River, the Three Gorges of the Yangtze and the famous Yellow Mountain. These rocks will grace any aquarium, terrarium or bonsai and can be combined with our gravel and sands to stunning effect.
